

MOSTY MIĘDZY POKOLENIAMI

The most frequent meetings of generations.

- Our grandparents often invite us to dinner after Mass, where we spend Sundays together..
- During various holidays such as Easter or Christmas, we spend time together with our families to celebrate various religious events..
- Sometimes, having a free evening, we watch movies together with our parents and siblings.
- We also see grandparents when the parents go out on the town in an important matter and need to take care of younger siblings.

Conversations between generations

- With grandparents they usually run quite fast with a question about health or school. They also often need help with the using modern devices. Grandparents are better listeners because of the relatively large amount of time, so we get along better.
- We usually see our parents every day, so they understand us better than grandparents, they don't need to be explained many things. Most often we talk at or after lunch. About how our day passed, how our test or test went. They also delve into our everyday problems and try to help us, but sometimes it is annoying. However with parents, we have a bigger problem with getting along and argue more often.

Hobby

- Each of us has a hobby, something that I do when I have free time. It gives us joy and purpose and often allows us to relax in awkward moments. That's why parents, taking care of our welfare, wanted to help us find our hobbies, starting with showing their own.
- When we go fishing or go mushrooming we often talk to about our everyday life, problems or achievements.
- A parent who used to play basketball and now we play, can help us to learn lot of tricks.
- Some parents also want to know more about our interests, because of it they want to watch TV series or play games with us.

Learning new skills

- Grandad want to teach us various interesting things such as how to light a fire, catch a fish or paint a room. Grandma shows us how to prepare a fast and nutritious breakfast or warm up a dinner.
- Our parents taught us how to walk, draw, ride a bike or mow grass. They are with us all the time and we are constantly learning from them, but they are learning from us too.
- Parents encourage us to study so that we have no problem finding a job in the future.

Politics

- If someone starts talking about politics on family meeting, every single person there join the discussion and then starts debate of our opinions and politics preferations.
- During every bigger meeting, we can't miss an argument with our grandmother or uncle.
- {the expansion of politics topic on workshops}

Internet

- Our parents are lately getting to know world of the internet more and more better so we can discuss with them about top topics in internet.
- Often we help our parents how to be active online by showing them how to create an account on facebook, learning how whatsapp works so we can have a better contact with them when we are not at home.

Television

- Our grandparents and parents also watch TV, even sometimes the same programmes as we do. Later we can discuss with them about TV's topics.
- We talk about feelings that a TV show or movie gave us or if in our opinion the main character did a right thing.
- We recommend them new, interesting TV series or tell them some different curiosities we found on the internet.

Quarrels

mostly we argue about:

- politics (the expansion scens from shopworks)
- internet (dicussion between parent and child about meeting having internet friends- the expansion scens from shopworks)
- our education (lack of investment)
- spending too little time at home
- having differents opinions and point of view
